Physical Fducation-The Strong Man, and how he Decame Strong.

[From the New York World.] The public have been not a little interested. for a few years, in occasional accounts of Dr. Winship, the "strong Yankee's" experiments in physical self-education. He is but about 26 years old, 5 feet 7 inches in hight, and weighs 148 pounds. He can lift eleven hun-dred pounds, and is now the best example of physical education in the United States. He was seventeen years of age before he began his experiments, and was then but five feet high, and weighed only 100 pounds; his health was not good, for he already suffered from the usual dyspeptical troubles of American youth. So great have been his improvements, that he now declares it to be his opinion that no one, having "an atom of strength and life," need despair of the benefits of a right system of training. He instances Dr. Warren's testimony respecting a veteran invalid, who began gymnastics in his seventieth year, with very salutary effects; and, of course, old Cornaro (famous in Addison's Spectator) is not forgotten, who, though no gymnast, began in his fortieth year to restore a broken constitution. and lived a life of health and of enviable cheerfulness till his hundredth year.

But what has been the efficacious theory of the strong Yankee? He has given it in the Massachusetts Teacher, but unfortunately in an article of too great length to be read much. We propose to take unusual liberties with this communication, in order to condense into a more readable shape his interesting details. They are the best prescriptions we have ever met for physical self-recuperation; in this day, when "muscular" merit has become a matter of special ambition, and physical training a subject of even moral preachments, it may not be unprofitable to present to the public an example which, from both its moderate good sense and its extraordinary results, may be pronounced a model one.

How, then, has the Yankee doctor surpassed all the pugilistic training of the age? We enu-merate, at much length, the principles of his system. We give the most essential particulars, presenting them, however, with our own numeration :

1. He has breathed an abundance of fresh air "almost constantly;" practising, we suppose, inflation of the lungs. 2. He has drunk no ardent spirits, and used no tobacco. The English "training" for the "ring." it is well known, prohibits these arti-3. He has taken, nearly every day, about a half-hour's gymnastic exercise in the open air, and in his is an example of the surprising moderation with which he has accomplished surprising results. 4. He has eaten heartily of such food, animal and vegetable, as agreed with his stomach, scouting the maxim that "you should leave the table hungry." He began not to recover from his dyspepsia till he escaped this non-5. He has taken at least ten hours rest daily including sleep, and appears to have devoted as much to sleep as nature would allow. 6. He has worn every article of his dress as loose and as easy as the freest action of his muscles and limbs would demand. 7. He has used the bath once a week in winter and twice a week in summer. He denounces the daily use of cold baths. He has pursued this course for nine years. and it has during this long period afforded him some important observations, if not discoveries. Here are a few of them

1. That it is as easy to increase the strength of the human body as it is that of a magnetic 2. That whatever increased his strength increased his general health. He enjoys now the maximum of the latter as he probably does of the former-for his force is now equal to that of two ordinary men.

3. That by developing his body harmoniously he could preclude the possibility of hernia or other similar injury, that otherwise might result from an extremely violent exercise of the

4. That lifting is the safest and surest method of producing "harmonious" development, as also the most strengthening of all exercises-a fact not generally supposed. 5. That the performance of twenty different gymnastic feats once, is better than the per-formance of one twenty times. 6. That he gained more by forty minutes' exercise once in two days, than by twenty minutes once a day. 7. Twenty or fifteen minutes' gymnastics sufficed for each day 5 That as strength increases, more intense but less-protracted exercise should be the rule. 9. That increase of muscular power is attended with a proportionate increase of digestive

10. That great physical strength may be acquired independently of hereditary tendency to it; and, indeed, in spite of hereditary weakness of constitution.

11. That increased strength cannot long continue on a purely vegetable diet.

12. That increasing the strength makes excretion take place less by the skin, and more by the lungs and other emunctories. 13. That long before he could raise eleven hundred pounds with the hands, or shoulder a barrel of flour, he had put to flight the whole brood of ailments-sick headaches, nervousness, indigestion, etc., which are the familiar companious of American health, or rather ill The Sampsonion doctor proceeds to give some very judicious rules, deduced from his experience, for all aspirants to good health and manly vigor. He advises that: 1. You should select for your sleeping room an apartment on the "sunny side," and let the sun play into it at least six hours a day, if the clouds will allow him to show his face.

2. Keep it ventilated all the time, and especially keep the windows partially open at night, but avoid drafts.

3. Practice generally ablution once a week in cold weather, twice a week in warm. Too much batning, he asserts, "defeats every intention for which water is externally applied." 4. Take not less than eight hours' rest per

5. Use no food which has been prepared in a copper, brass, or bell metal utensil. Use no water that has come in contact with lead.

6. Use such food as your appetite prefers, in spite of Leibig or any other authority. 7, Practice lifting as the best of gymnastics; but begin cautiously, and be careful of too much fatigue. Dumb bells he considers next desirable to lifting.

8. Never exceed half an hour in any gymnastic exercise.

9. Never rise early, unless you retire early, Be sure to get sleep enough.

10. Gradually wear less and less clothing about the neck, till you can keep it entirely exposed without taking cold.
Such is an outline of Dr. Winship's system.

Such is an outline of Dr. Winship's system. It is singularly sensible; it is almost universally practicable, except, perhaps, the prescription about sleep. Could it be generally adopted in the United States, we doubt not that, in one generation, it would reduce the medical faculty fifty per cent., and the rates of life assurance correspondingly, and render us the most vigorous and most long-lived nation on the globe, as we are now decidedly the "smartest." Vive le Yankee Docteur!

New Advertising Dodos —A novel mode of advertising has been introduced in New York, by the proprietors of the new weekly paper, Every Sturday, the first number of which appeared last week A dog of magnificent proportions is led about the streets, carrying pendant from his mouth a board on which is the inscription, "I am the advertising agent of the new weekly paper, &c. My boy will give you a circular." The boy, accordinly, finds himself kept busy in supplying the demands of the public. This dog, by the way—a Siberian blood-hound—has a pedigree. His paternal progenitor was sold some time ago for presentation to Queen Victoria, for the handsome sum of $1,000.

A Pupil Killed by His Teacher. The London Times, in speaking of crime in England, says that the "Summer Assizes in that county have already produced many startling cases; and as the eye glances over the columns, and speeds from crime to crime, the reader shudders at the glimpses which ever and anon he obtains of the depths of the depravity of our common nature, and of the fear-ful agencies of our worst instincts. Terrible deeds of vengeance committed upon slight provocation are proved against men of orderly lives and good previous conduct Cruelties without evil motive, and which could only proceed from a savage nature indulging its im-pulses under the self-deception that cruelty and duty go hand-in-hand, are made evident against men whom society has respected, and to whom parents have confided the care of their children."

The particular case to which the Times in this article alludes is that of Mr. Hopley, a middle-aged man, of gentlemanly appearance, preceptor of a family school, who was tried in London two weeks ago, on a charge of killing one of his pupils, named Reginald Channel Cancellor, the son of a man in fair position in society, for the board and instruction of whom Mr. Hopley was to receive $900 per year. It is asserted that the instructor mistook the mental condition of the lad, and attributed his stupidity, really caused by water on the brain, to obstinacy, and undertook to beat him into a brighter mental condition. What befel the poor lad we give in the report of the Times: One morning young Cancellor was found dead in his bed. The body was carefully covered over. It had white kid gloves upon its hands, and long stockings drawn far up over the thighs; nothing was visible but the face. Hopley suggested that the boy had died of disease of the heart, and wished a certificate from the surgeon and immediate burial. At one moment it appeared likely that the whole affair would be hushed up. But mysterious stories of midnight shrieks and bloodstained instruments of punishment began to be whispered about. The servants had seen blood upon the linen in Mrs. Hopley's room, and had heard sounds which convinced them that the misera-

of violence which would testify against her Then came the real investigation. The gloves and the stockings were stripped off, and the covered with extravasated blood; "the cellular membranes under the skin of the thighs were reduced to a perfect jelly; in fact, all torn to pieces and iscerated by the blows that had been inflicted." There were two holes in the right leg about the size of a sixpence, and an inch deep, which appeared to have been made by jobbing a thick stick into the flesh. The appearance was that of a human creature who had been mangled by an infuriated and merciless assailant. All these appearances coincided but too faithfully with what was now learnt of the conduct of the schoolmaster.

ble wife had spent the night in the frightful

task of preparing the body to pass a superficial investigation, and in getting rid of the traces

A servant girl who slept next to the pupilroom heard the boy crying and screaming under blows, and her master talking and beating. She listened at ten o'clock, when the torture was going on, and she awoke at twelve, when it was still proceeding. Then the cries sud-denly ceased, and nothing further was heard during that unquiet night but the stealthy movements of the wife, who was, with womanly devotion, doing the fearful task of hiding the traces of the tragedy.

The trial resulted in the conviction of Hopley, who was sentenced to four year's penal

WHEN PARSON BROWNLOW WILL JOIN THE DEMOCRATS. - An Arkansas correspondent. who probably wanted to "wake up" Rev. Mr. Brownlow, of the Knoxville (Tenn.) Whig, wrote to the latter stating that he had learned with pleasure, upon what "he considered reli-able authority," that Mr. Brownlow was about to join the democrats, and asked for the probable date of that interesting occurrence. Mr. Brownlow gave the date, or at least data for the date, as follows:

KNOXVILLE, Aug 6, 1860. MR. JORDAN CLARK-I have your letter of the 30th ult., and hasten to let you know the precise time when I expect to come out and formally announce that I have joined the democratic party. When the sun shines at midnight, and the moon at mid-day-when man forgets to be selfish, or democrats lose their inclinations to steal-when nature stops her onward march to rest, or all the water courses in America flow up stream-when flowers lose their odor, and trees shed no leaveswhen birds talk, and beasts of burden laughwhen damned spirits swap hell for Heaven, with the angels of light, and pay them the boot in mean whisky—when impossibilities are in fashion, and no proposition is too absurd to be believed, you may credit the report that I have joined the democrats.

I join the Democrats!-Never, so long as there are sects in churches-weeds in gardens -fleas in hog pens-dirt in victuals-disputes in families-wars with nations-water in the ocean—bad men in America, or base women in France! No, Jordan Clark, you may hope -you may congratulate-you may reasonyou may sneer—but that cannot be. The thrones of the Old World, the Court of the Universe—the governments of the world, may all fail and crumble into ruin-the New World may commit the national suicide of dissolving this Union, but all this must occur before] join the democracy! I join the democracy !- Jordan Clark, you know not what you say—when I join democracy, the Pope of Rome will join the Methodist Church—when Jordan Clark, of Arkansas, is President of the Republic of Great Britain, by universal suffrage of a contented people—when Queen Victoria consents to be divorced from Prince Albert, by a county court in Kansas—when Congress obliges by law James Buchanan to marry a European Princess—when the Pope leases the Capitol at Washington for his city residence—when Alexander of Russia and Napoleon of France are elected Senators in Congress from Mexico—when good men cease to go to Heaven, bad men to hell—when this world is turned upside down—when proof is afforded both clear and unquestionable, that there is no elephants, I will change my political faith, and come out on the side of democracy.

New Invention.—A Pittsburg paper speaks of a new invention in regard to the application of compressed air to the propulsion of city railroad cars. The cars can be run with more than ordinary speed, from six to eight miles, with six hundred pounds of air. It can be charged at one terminus, and run both ways of one of our city railroads without recharging.

A miniature model is now being used, and is a decided success. It is run by the force of compressed air, to be contained in some fifty compressed air, to be contained in some fifty tubes, which are charged from an air-pump of very great power. The pipe runs lengthwise upon the top, under the bottom and seats, and between each of the windows of the cars, and the arrangement for stopping and starting the car is feasible and facile. The miniature though placed upon a track around a circle of only thirteen feet in diameter, and, of course, en-countering very great friction, runs around the circle a number of times with great rapidity, under a charge of only sixty pounds of air.

progressed and improved so rapidly as that of dentistry. Forty years ago it was not a distinct profession; for doctors then officiated as tooth-pullers, with tunkey levers of the most rude description; and as for supplying the place of old teeth with new ones, it was never done at all. In 1820 there were only thirty practising dentises in the United States: In 1850 there were 2,923; at present there are about five thousand. The invention of artificial teeth has given a wonderful impetus to this most useful and beneficial art.
